“Euro Annies 2011”:
Alitalia is the European flag carrier which during 2010 and 2011 has opened the largest number of new routes.
Air One grows in Milan Malpensa and opens in Pisa.

Rome, 25 May 2011 - Alitalia has received the "Euro Annies 2011" award as the European flag airline that launched the largest number of new routes during 2010 and 2011.

The award was conferred by anna.aero Airline Network News and Analysis (www.anna.aero), the portal specialising in the analysis of airlines' networks.

By August 2011 Alitalia will have opened 26 new routes, including 4 intercontinental, 7 international and 15 national. Among the top new Alitalia destinations: Miami (from Milan Malpensa), Los Angeles, Beijing, Rio de Janeiro, Amman, Vienna, Toulouse, Malaga, Amsterdam (from Florence).

Furthermore, during the period taken into consideration by anna.aero, in addition to the 26 new routes opened by Alitalia, Air One launched 14 new routes from Milan Malpensa airport, of which 7 in 2010 and 7 in the current summer season. To date, Air One operates a total of 21 destinations from Milan Malpensa.

In addition to Milan Malpensa, from 1 July 2011, AirOne will also have a new operational base in Pisa with eight new routes, for an overall total of 22 new routes served.

"Internationalisation and attention to the territories are essential elements of the Alitalia's network development strategy" says Andrea Stolfa, EVP Marketing, Revenue Management & Network. "With a wide offer of domestic destinations and the development of international and intercontinental routes, Alitalia continues, together with Air One, to be the company serving the needs of mobility of the country. We see with satisfaction that our dynamism has been recognised and rewarded. "
